American multinational office furniture and workplace strategy company hired 3 candidates in sales, marketing, and operations through Atlas:

“Our experience with Atlas was so positive and successful because you care about people. The candidates you work with trust you and put faith in what you're able to deliver. You care about the partners you work with, always ask about my business, and always look for ways to support my business beyond just sourcing for roles.

Maja and Elisa have both been promoted already, and Sarah's done a fantastic job winning major deals, including the biggest job in Shanghai this year. So they've all been really successful for us, talented and solid, quality people and that's attributable to the way you attract the right people and connect them with companies like ours.”
